LOCAL BRIEFS

The weather never gets cold enough to nip the society bud.

A new lumber mill is being erected on Neuse river, near the city, on the site of the old Street & Hyman mill.

The sad news reached this city Friday by telegram, of the death of the venerable mother of our esteemed townsman, Captain J. W. Lamb, at her home in Chiquipin, Duplin county, in the 77th year of her age. Captain Lamb was with her in her last moments.

Telegrams are constantly coming that this or that vessel has a speed of a particular number of knots an hour. Therefore, for the information of those who are not familiar with nautical parlance we rise to say a knot is 6086.7 feet; a mile 5280 feet; difference 106.7 feet. Knowing this, it is easy to compute the war vessels' speed.

The anxiety of Mr. Thomas Hill to retain his leg, which was badly lacerated in that shooting affray at Newbern, was met by sympathy and admiration from the public, and now, after suffering many weeks without any signs of healing, it became necessary to amputate it, he has the condolence of the entire community and all hope to see him soon restored to health.

Pious mothers will provide their sons with bibles and copies of the ARGUS when they go to the coast to "hold the fort," but they should also not forget to provide them with mosquito-netting and cheese-cloth, as long before they get sight of the Spanish mosquito fleet of torpedos boats they will have innumerable engagements with the fleet mosquito and his small brother, the gnat.

AFTER a lingering illness, Mrs. Julia Thompson, the mother of our townsman Mr. W. R. Thompson, breathed her last in the early hours of Saturday morning. She was a pious woman and a conscientious Christian, holding membership with St. John M. E. Church, from which she had been held Sunday afternoon, and which was attended by a large concourse of sympathizing relatives and friends.

The alert systems' companies are advertising cheap "Sunday" railway excursions from Richmond, Va., and elsewhere, to the coast, to enable the public generally to see the war preparations going on there. It is probable these specials will be extended to embrace passengers from Goldsboro and elsewhere in this vicinity.

A TRAVELER who arrived to day from Florida says that he took of strawberries there during the early part of last January. The fruit was worth fifty cents a quart, where raised, and about one dollar a quart in the large cities north. The rate was about fourteen cents a quart box to get the berries to market. Notwithstanding Florida had two severe freezes in January, the thermometer indicating 19 degrees above 0 in the vicinity of Fort Myers, where it was three degrees colder than 200 miles north of there at the same time, there were many shipments of strawberries from different parts of the state in February. This information was evoked by the traveler noticing the paragraph in yesterday's ARGUS relative to the shipment of strawberries from this section at the present time.

If those who smoke, and never indulge in anything less than a genuine all Havana cigar, propose to continue in that practice, they had better lay in an ample supply at once, as the real article is becoming very scarce. However, if the genuine article runs out they can learn to enjoy the true American cigar made from Havana and Sumatra tobaccos raised in Florida, and that is the equal, in all respects, of the choicest cigar that can be produced from tobacco raised in any other part of the world. This is what an expert tells us. He says, also, that thousands of cigars have been sold in this country, as genuine all Havana, during the last few months, that were made exclusively of Florida-raised tobacco, and that the boast of some of the big manufacturers of cigars in Ybor City and elsewhere in Florida, that they turn out a genuine Cuban raised tobacco cigar is a fraud. Also, that at Quincy, Port Meade and Dade City in Florida, that state tobacco is sorted, sweated, pitoned (doctored), packed, baled and shipped to Chicago, New York, and elsewhere, in exact imitation of genuine Cuban tobacco, imported through Tampa, and that this tobacco is manufactured into cigars that are sold at a very high rate as veritable Havanas.

ISLER-KYLE.

A Beautiful Wedding in the Presbyterian Church Thursday April 14.

All streets and driveways Thursday afternoon in this city led to the Presbyterian church, where, at 5.30 o'clock, one of Goldsboro's most beautiful and truly admired young ladies, Miss Barbara May Isler, was to be united in marriage to Mr. James Kyle, of Fayetteville.

At the appointed hour—and long before, the beautiful edifice was crowded with the elite of our city, and far out into the street the crowd extended, unable to find sitting or standing room within, thus attesting the lively interest of all our people in the happy occasion.

The interior of the church, always beautiful, was indeed a fairy scene of exquisite loveliness, with its elaborate floral decorations, so artistically arranged as to challenge the admiration of all and so bounteous as to convey through the festal eye to the soul a sense of absolute satisfaction. The chancel was a perfect bank of Lilies of the Valley, punctuated with rhetoric skill by lovely white lilies and backgrounded with soft ferns and green growing plants.

The fine organ was presided over by Miss Winnie Hicks, who charmed the large congregations with bewitching selections while they waited for the crowning event of the expectant hour.

Promptly at 5.30 o'clock the bridal party arrived; the first notes of the thrilling wedding march signaled their approach, and the waiting minister, the pastor of the church, Rev. F. W. Farries, confronted the congregation to greet the happy young couple who were so soon to stand before him to plight their eternal troth. It was an impressive scene as the procession advanced and formed around the Godly man who is so much beloved by all our people, and whose soft voice, whether in prayer or sermon or benediction, soothes the hearts of all hearers as an influence from on high, even as if while he prayed his prayer was answered unto all; and so this beautiful bridal service, amid fragrant flowers and the beaming faces of abiding friends, and gilded, just at that moment, as with a halo, by the rays of the declining sun mellowed through the stained glass window of the chancel, was rendered the more solemnly impressive in that he was the officiating minister.

It was a pink and white wedding, the bridesmaids being attired in these colors, alternating, and the effect was most pleasing. The bride was gowned in a rich dress of white brocade satin and carried a large bunch of bride's

When a man breaks down with that dread disease, consumption, and recognizes his condition, he starts out to fish for health. He tries this thing and that thing. He consults this doctor and that doctor. He indulges in all kinds of absurd athletic exercises. He tries first one climate and then another. He tries the rest cure and the work cure. He grows steadily worse. That is the story of most consumptives. Finally, when the consumptive dies, the doctor shrugs his shoulders and pronounces consumption incurable. A thirty years' best of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has demonstrated that it cures 95 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, before the lungs are too far wasted. In a consumptive there is a weaker spot than even the lungs. That spot is the stomach. A consumptive never really begins to get well until his stomach gives out. The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only braces up the stomach, but acts directly on the lungs, healing them and driving out all impurities. Honest medicine dealers will not urge you to take an inferior substitute. "I had a very bad cough, also night-sweats, and was almost in my grave with consumption," writes Mrs. Clara A. McIntyre, Box 18, Ashland, Middlesex Co., Mass. "A friend of mine who had died with consumption came to me in a dream and told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and thank the Lord, I did so. By the time I had taken half of the first bottle I felt much better. I kept on until I had taken three bottles. That was all I needed. I got well and strong again."

Whenever consumption is one of the complicating causes of disease, the most perfect remedy is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are always effective, yet absolutely mild and harmless. There never was any remedy invented which can take their place. They never gripe.

The attendants were Mrs. John Underwood, of Fayetteville, Miss Marie Murchison, of New York; Miss Eliza Williams, of Fayetteville, and Misses Mabel Borden, Annie Isler and Matilda Fort, of Goldsboro. The ushers were Mr. J. D. Black of Fayetteville, Mr. J. W. Perrin, of Wilmington, and Messrs. Robert Kornegay and H. B. Parker, of Goldsboro. Miss Marie Murchison, of New York, was "Maid of Honor" and Mr. Edwin Kyle, of Fayetteville, brother of the groom, was "best man."

After the ceremony the bridal party were driven in carriages to the hospitable home of the bride's parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Isler, where a reception was held from 6 until 10 o'clock, and where hosts of friends went to extend their congratulations and good wishes. The bridal presents were a perfect galaxy in profusion and handsome beyond description. At 10:10 o'clock at night the happy couple boarded a private coach of the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., of which the groom's father is a high official, which was attached to the north-bound train, and left for an extended bridal tour, taking with them the best wishes of the entire community. After the departure of the bride and groom the attendants at the marriage repaired to the Armory of the Goldsboro Rifles, where the Comus Club gave a delightful dance in honor of the occasion, in which the following couples participated, led by Mr. H. P. Dortch, Jr.:

D. R. Kornegay with Kate Badger, of Raleigh.
F. P. Parker with Matilda Fort, of Pikeville.
Dr. P. C. Hutton, with Fan Kyle, of Fayetteville.
E. K. Freeman with Mrs. G. C. Southernland, of Washington.
A. H. Edgerton with Ella Kirby, of Raleigh.
J. G. Sizor with Eliza Williams, of Fayetteville.

SATURDAY SERMON.

Published For Sunday Pulpit and Every Day Guidance.

"Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy."—Matt. 5. 7.

Of the many beautiful utterances expressed by our Lord Jesus in the very practical sermon delivered by Him to the anxious multitude that thronged about Him on the mountain, none ought to engage the attention of mankind more than this one in their endeavor to follow the example of the world's great model, the Man Christ Jesus. No one ever appealed to Him in vain. He was always ready and willing to hear the suppliant's cry. If there is one attribute that stands out more conspicuous than another in our Master's life it is that one of mercy. If there is one characteristic He would impress on us to exhibit in our contact with mankind more than another it is that of mercy. The world is so cold, so uncharitable, so apt to misjudge the motives and purposes of each other that a great deal more misery and suffering exists than there is really any need for. Oftentimes no opportunities are given for explanations or statements allowed to be made that might go a long way in palliating cruel judgments and avoiding much of the harshness that arouses the evil nature of our fellows rather than cultivate those nobler qualities that exist to a greater or less degree (we believe) in every man's breast. The blessed Master in His contact with mankind was loving and compassionate, especially to the suffering and unfortunate. While there are many persons who are greatly interested in doing what they can to relieve suffering humanity everywhere, it must be conceded that the lesson of being merciful might be studied with great profit by the masses of mankind to lift us up to a higher conception of what our Lord meant when He said: "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy."

The world in which we live is a great field to give an exhibition of this sterling qualification. It is not the majority of men who are successful in the great race of life. It is always, in every case, the small minority who are destined to reach the top round of success in every avocation of life. Those who are left behind are in many instances just as desirous, just as earnest, just as honest, but misfortunes oftentimes hinder and environments in many cases prevent. Ought there not to be an opportunity given to every struggling one to obtain comfort and happiness as far as he is able for himself and family? If the creditor class would always give this opportunity there

As Jeremy Taylor says: "How few men in the world are prosperous? What an infinite number of slaves and beggars, of persecuted and oppressed people fill all corners of the earth with groans, and heaven itself with weeping prayers and sad remembrances." What mighty field there is to be imbued with the principles of mercy if this essential necessary to the world's happiness would take the place of wars. Combinations would be made for (instead of against) giving every one who desired an opportunity to follow the useful and honorable vocations of life, no class legislation would prevail, no labor turmoils to the detriment of capital, no monopolies would exist to freeze out the person of limited means in the varied business pursuits, no discriminations anywhere, the doors of all industrial, mechanical and manufacturing interests would say to the horny handed sons of toil, regardless of nationality, come, labor with and for us, and we will remunerate thee for thy toil; then sweet peace would reign supreme, contentment and prosperity abound, because "righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

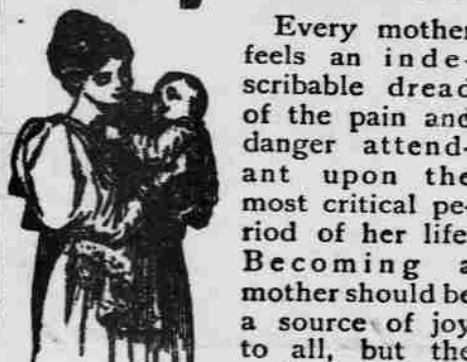

That is the common Spring complaint. You feel "lousy." dull. Your appetite is poor. Nothing tastes good. You don't sleep well. Work drags. You cross every bridge before you come to it. There's lots of people have felt like you until they tuned up the system by taking the great spring remedy

Baby Mine!

Every mother feels an indescribable dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger of the ordeal make its anticipation one of misery.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the remedy which relieves women of the great pain and suffering incident to maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is removed by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness and other distressing conditions are avoided, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. It is a blessing to woman.

would not be so many ruined homes, so many crushed hearts, so many blasted hopes, so many persons hurried by merciless persecution into a suicide's grave and into a suicide's hell. It is not always necessary to grasp the poor debtor by the throat, saying, "Pay me that thou owest," especially when honest efforts according to opportunity are being made to meet reasonable obligations incurred. How hard it is when combinations of all kinds are made to impede or hinder the man of small means from succeeding in the avenues of trade and industry! If we think this is not being done, we have only to open our eyes and look around, and the truthfulness of this assertion confronts us at every gaze. Ostracism and prejudice are the two evils whose combinations crush the fondest hopes and destroy the ambitions of an honest heart. Individuals and nations are alike guilty of these enormous wrongs. Let the whole people stop and think on these things and then remember our Saviour says: "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." All persons who are poor are not dishonest, and all people who are forbidden by cruel combination from entering into the common pursuits of life are not indolent. Give all a chance. Let every one have an opportunity.

AFTER suffering for nearly thirty years from dyspepsia, Mrs. H. E. Dugdale, wife of a prominent business man of Warsaw, N. Y., writes: "For 25 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The lightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the formation of gas. No matter how careful of my diet I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and tried numerous remedies without permanent benefit. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and Nerve. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects. I keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any ill symptoms."

suffering and the afflicted. We thank God for them. They are the product of a Christian faith. They are, indeed, the leaven that we trust shall leaven the whole lump in the near future. They are the practical instructors of what our Lord means when he teaches us the great lessons of being merciful. This doctrine needs to be enlarged on until in every house the reasonable desires and wishes of the aged shall be respected and their frailties overlooked; when the children everywhere shall feel that it is a great privilege to smooth out the wrinkles of care, caused by the burden of time, when the sunning of youth shall brighten the pathway for declining years; until every child shall realize that its feeble, faltering efforts made in pursuing a course through the world is strengthened by the experience and advice of parents whose highest aim in life is to see them happy.

Until every orphan shall be made to know that although by the dispensation of Providence they have been bereft of their best earthly friends they shall not find this world cold and uncharitable, but that other hands will feel it to be their duty to guide them by friendly assistance into the paths of peace and prosperity.

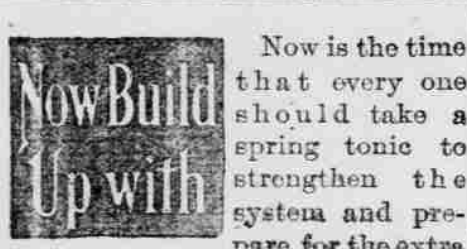

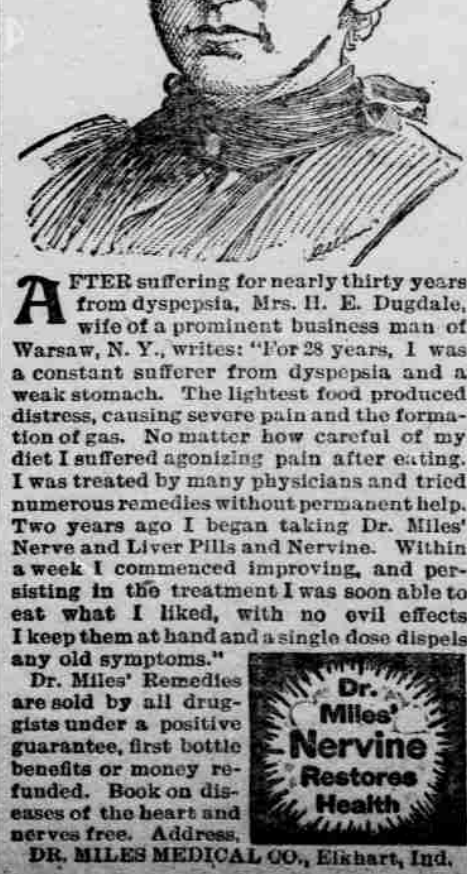

Until every widow shall realize that although her earthly support is gone, the grasping, cringing hand of greed will not, shall not, deprive her of a fair opportunity of taking care of her home and little ones by the help afforded by a kind-hearted, loving world. Until it shall be the highest aim of capital to drive pauperism and crime out of the land by devising such plans and pursuing such a course that all can be employed, and remunerative wages will forbid squalidness and misery anywhere.

Until labor shall be suited only as to the best plan to pursue to further the interests of those whose resources enable them to furnish employment for the toiling masses.

Until the trend of all investigation along scientific lines shall be to devise ways and means to lighten men's burdens and relieve men's sufferings.

Until public sentiment shall be so cultivated until by common consent the Holy Sabbath shall be everywhere respected, and man shall feel it to be his duty to be in the house of the Lord on each recurring Sabbath to learn lessons of wisdom and instruction. Those lessons that will make men better, and this world, as it were, the vestibule of Heaven.

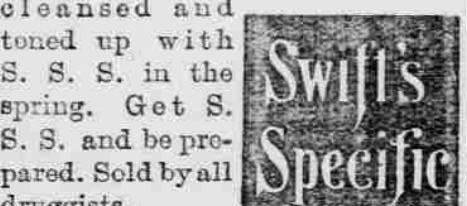

When we learn these lessons, the promise is we shall obtain mercy. In this world we deal with each other, but the time is rapidly approaching when we must appear before a just God to give an account of our stewardship—whether we have been righteous or dealt wickedly with our fellowman. What a terrible panorama it will be to that man who will look back on his life's pathway and find it strewn with unkind deeds, cruel exactions, perverse discriminations, disregard for the necessities of the poor, unmerciful to the widow

Now is the time that every one should take a spring tonic to strengthen the system and prepare for the extra demands of Nature. Every spring the system is thoroughly overhauled—there is a general house-cleaning going on within. The impurities that have been accumulated for a year must be gotten rid of, and the system renovated and prepared for the siege of summer. Unless Nature is assisted in this task, the strain on the system is too severe, and a breakdown is the result. Some people neglect to supply this assistance, and as a result they are overcome by an enervating, depressed feeling, their energies relax, appetite fails, and they are totally disabled for a season. Everybody just now needs a tonic, and Swift's Specific is logically the best tonic on the market. The general health needs building up, hence a tonic is needed that is entirely harmless. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy that is guaranteed to contain no potash, mercury, or other harmful mineral ingredient. It is Nature's remedy, being made from roots and herbs gathered from Nature's great storehouse. It thoroughly cleanses the blood of all impurities, tones up the general health, renews the appetite and imparts new life and vigor to the entire system. Dangerous typhoid fever and other prevalent summer diseases seldom attack a person whose system is thoroughly cleansed and toned up with S. S. S. in the spring. Get S. S. S. and be prepared. and orphan, combinations entered into to distress and oppress his fellow being, who did not happen to be so successful in life as himself. As he stands before a just God and remembers these things what a terrible remorse will overshadow him, what a smiling of the knees as he realizes he "traps what he has sown." No mercy extended to struggling and suffering humanity, no mercy can be expected from a just God.

But that one who has endeavored to "do to others as he would have them do unto him," he who can recall a life devoted to solving the problem that would conduce to the best interests of his fellow being, whose heart was filled with sympathy for the unfortunate and distressed, whose hand was ever ready to minister to their necessities, whose highest aim in life was to imitate the example of the Blessed Master, can appropriate unto himself the declaration of Christ when he said: "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." With sins forgiven, and the consciousness of a life devoted to the interests of his Redeemer's kingdom, he will in response to invitation enter into the kingdom of God's glory, to be forever crowned, forever honored, in the presence of our God. He will have right and title to the tree of life.

"So will he be forever with the Lord." Dear reader, think on these things, and may it be your highest endeavor to be in "everything merciful according as thou hast opportunity," and let us remember with George Eliot, "When death, the great reconciler, has come, it is never our tenderness that we repent of, but our severity."

"A word to the wise is sufficient" and a word from the wise should be sufficient, but you ask who are the wise? Those who know. The oft-repeated experience of trustworthy persons may be taken for knowledge. Mr. W. M. Terry says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been in the drug business at Eldon, Ky., for twelve years; has sold hundreds of bottles of this remedy and nearly all other cough medicines manufactured, which shows conclusively that Chamberlain's is the most satisfactory to the people and is the best. No girl can write an effective love letter and chew gum at the same time. I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this, and I really say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children. —W. A. Stroud, Popponoma, City, Md. For sale by M. E. ## THE WHEAT OUTLOOK.

Probably that the immensity of the Crop May Affect Bailing Operations of the Great Western Vampires.

In view of the fact that war seems imminent, and flour is expected to advance considerably in price, it will interest the public here to know that the outlook for the 1898 wheat crop in this country is very favorable. As there was a rapid advance in the price of wheat several months ago, due to the urgent demand for it abroad, that led to increased seeding in the winter wheat districts in the fall of 1897, followed by still further similar action during the following spring. And now comes reliable information that an exceptionally favorable winter season has strengthened the plant, and that the crop is approaching its final stages of development in splendid condition. This gives rise to the assertion that with a larger acreage, a healthier stand and a promising fair spring "the conditions point to a yield considerably in excess of that of last year." This is cheering, particularly to the poor and those of moderate means, as the great wheat-vampires who have their eyes up north, will, it is at least hoped, not be able to corner the crop, and lock it up in their elevators, as readily as it was a small one. There is no doubt that in the event of war there will be intense speculation in cereals of all kinds, and wheat in particular; and, therefore, while not favorable to lynchings or violent and unlawful action of any kind, we believe we are justified in saying that many would not go into more than half mourning if an excited populace pounced upon those who would cause flour to go up to $16 a barrel and gave them their passports to their final destination without the benefit of purgatory.
